

The Cox Pavilion is a 2,472-seat indoor arena built in 2001 on the campus of the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, more specifically adjacent to the school's primary indoor arena, the Thomas & Mack Center. It is used for small events and its main tenants are the UNLV women's basketball and volleyball programs.

On November 15, 2007, the Cox Pavilion played host to Nevada's Democratic Presidential Debate.

The arena has also many events for the Las Vegas based Wrestling Promotion ECWA such as ExtremeTV, Summer Bash 17, Retribution 24, and other various events
